Would Lower Tax

Need Keen Minds

(An Editorial)

West Texas State University comes of age today with the signing by Governor Preston Smith of a piece of legislation creating a separate board of regents for the university.

This is indeed a red letter day for those interested in the future of WTSU. It is also a day for taking stock of the past, present and future.

WTSU and the cultural community surrounding her will prosper only in direct relation to the manner in which she is nurtured.

It is of primary importance that we attract top students to West Texas State University if our school is to grow in academic excellence.

And academic excellence is at least one of the chief reasons for the very existence of an institution of higher learning.

A young man or woman is not getting a proper education in college if he or she is not exposed to sharp minds.

Students are polished by association with other students of keen intellect almost as much as by exposure to learned professors.

We contend that although a Chamber of Commerce appropriation of $500 for the educational committee---a committee dedicated principally to bringing top students to WTSU--may seem extravagant to some, it is a paltry amount beside that which should be spent for this purpose.

Canyon's chief import should be high school students. Our chief export should be educated university graduates. We must have top raw material if we are to turn out a top finished product.

We simply must find some way to provide at least a decent budget for this worthwhile undertaking.

Candidate Coffee Is Tonight

Canyon voters will have an opportunity to meet candidates for the city commission tonight at a coffee sponsored by the Canyon Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The coffee will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the Junior Livestock Building.

On hand to greet and talk to voters will be Walter Shelly, Felix Pierce, Kenneth Olsen and Francis Shell.

Shell and Olsen are candidates for place 5 and Shelly and Pierce are candidates for place 4. Pierce and Olsen are incumbents.

May Drop Road, Bridge Special

Commissioner Glenn Dowlen suggested that the county drop its 30-cent road and bridge special tax Monday as commissioners court haggled over taxes but reached no decisions.

Dowlen's suggestion came as commissioners discussed adoption of a plan submitted by a tax study committee in January.

If adopted, the tax study committee's proposal would raise rural taxes about 13.33 per cent and lower city taxes 3.66 percent.

"Let's think some about lowering taxes instead of raising them," said Dowlen.

"How about this 30-cent special road and bridge levy. "We need it but we are taxing rural people to death. We could certainly use the money but we may just have to go along with less roads."

Discussion of the tax committee's recommendation came after Tax Assessor-Collector Audrey Bruse told commissioners she needs a decision in the near future.

Judge Carroll Brown was in favor of adopting the tax study committee proposal.

"We've got a good basic principal for working out taxes as equitably as possible," Brown told the court.

Commissioner Bill Butler made a motion that valuation on rural dwellings be left the same as new and that valuation on city dwellings be reduced 15 percent and then 17 percent of actual value, instead of the current 15 percent, be used as a taxing basis.

Commissioner Clarence Beckman criticized the motion because he said it would make the taxing basis on rural homes more than half that used for taxing city homes as is currently done.

Ask Budget Slice

QUESTION COMMITTEE

A Canyon banker Monday night termed a Chamber of Commerce Education Committee budget proposal for $500 extravagant and asked the chamber board to hack it in half.

Bill Adams, president of First National Bank and a member of the chamber, called on the education committee chairman, Dr. T. Paige Carruth, to list expenses which the committee incurred last year.

The committee's appropriation is used principally to attract top students to West Texas State University from high schools outside this immediate area.

Carruth is dean of student life at WTSU.

Adams attended the board meeting Monday to question Carruth on the committee's expenditures. Board chairman Dean House said Adams had contacted him recently concerning the committee and its spending.

Adams, saying he is concerned with where monies for every chamber committee are spent, questioned Carruth on what his committee spent money for.

Carruth said the money is used as a back-up fund to cover expenses of recruitment trips which involve over-night stays.

He said the State of Texas prohibits state funds from being used for recruitment of academic students.

Part of the funds for recruitment come from a fund created by Dr. Emmitt Smith of the university, Carruth said, but each department uses this fund for its recruiting and often enough money through the fund is not available.

This, Carruth said, is where the chamber education committee monies come in.

Adams asked Carruth if the chamber money was used for short trips, for example to Perryton or Pampa.

"I wouldn't turn in a check for reimbursement for a trip to an area high school," Carruth said. "It doesn't cost that much."

Carruth said he only ex-

Commission Election Is Tuesday

A pharmacist, two teachers and a businessman will vie for two positions on the Canyon City Commission during city elections Tuesday.

Jim Walker, city clerk, said 16 persons had voted absentee as of mid-week. He termed this turnout better than he expected.

Two incumbents, Kenneth Olsen, an assistant professor of business at West Texas State University, and Felix Pierce, a businessman dealing in fuel, will meet

Brain Surgery For City Man

John Plank of Canyon is listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Northwest Texas Hospital this week following brain surgery about 2 a.m. Sunday.

A Canyon area farmer, Plank was injured about 11a.m. Saturday in an accident at his farm northwest of Canyon.

According to his wife, the injury occurred when the jack he was using slipped and the handle struck him in the right side of the head.

"He continued to work until about two o'clock that afternoon and had moved to another of our farms to sow barley when he called for me to pick him up," said his wife.

"We went to the doctor in Canyon and were referred to Northwest Texas Hospital," she stated.

Plank has farmed in the Canyon area for about 20 years and is a member of the new Randall County Water Board, is active in the Junior Livestock Association and a member of the First Baptist Church.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Plank, southwest of the city, and his sons, Rhett, and Daryl of Houston, and daughters, Margaret Whinnery of Fort Worth and Laura Harbert of Dumas, returned to their father's side for the surgery. Another son, John of Canyon, was also there.

Ink Separate Regents Bill

Governor Preston Smith will sign legislation giving West Texas State University a separate board of regents at 10 o'clock today in Austin.

On hand for the historic moment will be some 30 area leaders including at least seven men from Canyon.

Making the trip from Canyon will be Dean House, Dr. T. Paige Carruth, Mayor Paul Lindsey, Joe Gidden, W. E. "Bill" Adams, Troy Martin and Dr. James P. Cornette.

House is vice president of West Texas State Bank and president of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Carruth is dean of student life at WTSU and chairman of the Chamber education committee.

Lindsey is mayor of Canyon. Gidden was Governor Smith's campaign chairman in Randall County last year and Adams is president of Canyon First National Bank.

Dr. Cornette is president of West Texas State University and Martin is publisher of The Canyon News.

The Canyon group was to join a larger group from over the area, principally Amarillo, at 6 o'clock this morning and board a chartered DC3 for the trip to the state capitol.

The special plane is to arrive in Austin at 9 o'clock in plenty of time for signing ceremonies in the governor's office an hour later.

The delegation is scheduled to lunch with members of the Plains legislative

University Bond Tied

Final bonds for a sister-university relationship between West Texas State University and Takasaki College of Economics in Japan were cemented last weekend.

Susumu Tokadu, former president of the Japanese college, spent four days in Canyon talking to civic clubs, school students and WTSU administrators.

He was given two plaques Thursday signifying the sister-university bond by Dr. James P. Cornette, president of WTSU.

The sister-university idea was first proposed by the Japanese College last summer and okayed by university officials in August.

While in Canyon, Tokadu presented the university with several gifts, including a porcelain Japanese doll and a tapestry to be housed in Winning sweepstakes were the Canyon High School mixed choir and boys choir and the Canyon Junior High School girls and boys choirs. Sweepstakes is given for a first division rating in both concert and sightreading competition.

"This was the first time such an honor has been won by the Canyon Schools for choir events," said Miss Linda Adams, CHS choir director.

Light Shorts Pain Boone

The idea that one bad incident leads to another must have seemed like a reality Monday for John Boone, chief of the maintenance department at West Texas State University.

Not much went right for him.

Loose wiring in a small motor in the basement of the new University Complex, South building on campus shorted out early Monday. That's when the headaches began.

The short circuit caused a loss of heat to part of the building and maintenance workers were busy throughout the morning trying to restore the motor.

But, shortly before noon, another circuit shorted and lighting in the UCS and the administration building was out.

It stayed out more than 21/2 hours, before Boone could substitute parts and restore the lights.

$12 Million

NEW WTSU FUND BILL

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Canyon and President James P. Cornette of West Texas State University praised today the proposed appropriation for the university for the next two years.

The $12 million proposed for the 1970-71 biennium is "one of the fairest appropriation bills that has ever come out of a legislative committee," Dr. Cornette said.

The bill, referred to the Senate Finance Committee, "is one we can't complain about if we can hold it and I think we can hold it," Sen. Hazlewood said.

Under the proposed appropriation, the university would receive $6,009,385 for fiscal 1970 and $6,098,104 for 1971. The university was appropriated $5,007,060 for fiscal 1969.

The amount recommend by a Senate Finance subcommittee was less than the university had requested.

Dr. Cornette said, "There is only one item in which we are really disappointed and that is faculty salaries." He added:

"For the biennium, it is $322,634 short of our request, which was based on formulas prescribed by appropriate state agencies."

The current appropriation allocated $2,800,237 for faculty salaries. The proposed appropriation would hike them to $3,142,348 in 1970 and to $3,299,465 in 1971. The bill calls for a $2,500 increase to $25,000 for the president.

'Phaedra' Wins One-Act Events

Top honors at the University Interscholastic League one-act play contests Saturday went to Canyon High School drama students interpretation of "Phaedra".

Molly Malone, who created the role of Phaedra, was the winner of the best actress award for her part in the play and Mike LaGrone, who played Phaedra's lover Hippolytaus, won the best actor award. The best actor-best actress received UIL medals and the entire play cast won a trophy for the school.

The play will advance to the regional UIL competition for one-act plays April 18 in Odessa, according to Truman Dunahoo, director.

Written by I. E. Clark, "Phaedra" is a tragic-drama and unfolds as Phaedra's marriage to Theuseus is overcome by her love for his son, Hippolytaus. Phaedra resolves to die and is close

It is garden planting time.

I always get the urge to plant a garden about this time of year.

I like to get out in the back yard and feel the soil against bare flesh. This country is still close to the soil and I am a son of the soil.

I'll never get my fill of the smell of fresh plowed ground and dark brown furrows are things of beauty.

I feel all this as spring turns and the weather warms.

I can visualize the delicious green beans and nutritious English peas, nectar sweet strawberries and succulent corn grown right in my own back yard.

I usually buy about $10 worth of fertilizer and then several dollars worth of tools to replace the ones I didn't put away last winter.

Then I start digging about noon Saturday full of ambition and determination to save a mint on the grocery bill. That feeling lasted about 45 minutes when I was younger. For the past three years I've managed to get rid of it without missing more than 15 minutes of the Saturday TV matinee.

I expect to cut it down to commercial size within the next two or three years.

Clyde Walters makes a good point in his Sunday News-Globe column.

Clyde says Panhandle people should keep in closer touch with their representatives in Austin. There are times when we need to promote legislation and times when we need to stop some that is being promoted.

The better we get to know the people who represent us in the legislature, the more voice we are going to have in how the state is run.

It's something to think about.

As we have said before, West Texas State has its separate board now and now is the time to move.

The board of regents will require strong men of high intellect and capacity to see the future. Our first board must be made up of people with an ability to get along with others because all our people must be heard.

It must have members who have knowledge of and influence in state government. Above all, it should have members who are interested in the development of West Texas State and the Panhandle.

Choosing people of such stature will not be an easy job for Governor Preston Smith who must appoint them.

Borger Band Festival Set

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

It is the American prerogative to gripe. It was the exercise of that prerogative that freed the land from old King George's tyranny. Failure to exercise our precious heritage has deprived us of many freedoms already. And unless more Americans register their complaints against prevailing injustices, we may lose the priceless privilege of complaining.

Before we gripe, however, we should make certain that we have a legitimate complaint; and that we are willing to pay the price for our complaining.

The men who signed the Declaration of Independence pledged their "lives," their "fortunes," and their "sacred honor" for their cause. If the Colonies had been defeated, every signer who survived the war would have been hanged as a traitor. Those men truly risked their all.

A few of the men lost their lives; almost all of them lost their fortunes; but their sacred honor will shine untarnished as long as this civilization shall stand.

There are millions of Americans who still believe we have the grandest Country on the face of the earth. And thousands would be delighted to furnish one-way tickets for all the hate-America people to move to some country that suits them better.

The radical new left is keeping our beloved Nation in such a turmoil over imagined ills that great caution should be exercised lest we overlook some very real, insidious, and destructive evils that are sweeping the land.

A handfull of rampaging "students" have disrupted our colleges from coast to coast. They are embarrassing their homeland before the whole world. In addition to the dishonor they are heaping upon the U. S., they have damaged buildings that will cost the American taxpayers millions of dollars to repair; they have caused untold mental and physical anguish; and have been instrumental in several deaths.

Surely no one would condone the rioters conduct, but do they have just cause for complaint?

Analyze the list of demands that are being repeated on almost every campus: black teachers, black counselors, black coaches, black history, food peculiar to Negroes, the waiving of the usual entrance requirements for all non-whites, and room assignments in dormitories without regard to race or color.

In the first place there are hundreds of colleges that provide black teachers, counselors, and coaches, and where food peculiar to Negroes is served. Why do the unhappy students not seek those schools? If the entrance requirements are to be waived for the non-white minority, does this not discriminate against the white majority? And if a student cannot pass the entrance requirements, can he pass the courses?

If a Negro's civil rights are violated because he is not assigned a white roommate, what about the white student's civil rights who does not choose to room with a Negro?

A very unhappy Negro girl from Alabama was asked if she had been mistreated at West Texas State University. She quickly explained that--on the contrary--both students and faculty had been most gracious to her. She simply preferred to attend a Negro school. She said, "I like Negroes, and I want to go back to Tuskegee Institute where I can be with my own people."

The Negro coed was gracious and honest, and no one would deny her the right to prefer the society of her own race. But if a white coed had expressed the same sentiment, she would have been immediately branded a "dirty racist." Why? Are only colored people entitled to civil rights?

(More questionable complaints will be aired next week.)

CSC Views Drama 'TEXAS'

"TEXAS" can succeed as long as its roots are in the Panhandle, according to Mrs. Ples Harper of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation who spoke last Tuesday night to a meeting of the Canyon Study Club.

Mrs. Harper said that "TEXAS" must be sustained and protected by those who are younger, and she urged that all groups take an interest as too many programs have begun and failed because of the lack of interested people to carry on the project.

The meeting was at the home of Mrs. Paul Davis with Mrs. Durwood Henderson and Mrs. Weyman Brown as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Don Vars, president, gave a progress report concerning the new junior study club here. She reported that membership dues had been collected from 37 and that the group had selected the name "Heritage Women's Club" at a meeting Monday night.

Mrs. Weyman Brown reported to the club on the upcoming Federation Convention to be held in Dalhart. A number of CSC members announced plans to attend.

A display of books and pamphlets available to Canyon students through the Canyon High School library were displayed by Mrs. David Patterson. The books deal with the subjects of glue sniffing marijuana and drugs, according to Mrs. Patterson, who said that the books "treat the subjects clearly and in a manner that does not give a rosy picture."

She stated that the books have been well accepted by the students and also stated that film strips and recorded situations have also been made available at the library.

Introduced as new members of the club were Mrs. Clark Mires and Mrs. Jim Williams.

The president, Mrs. Vars, listed committee chairmen for the 1969-70 club year including: Mrs. Don Sheffy, projects chairman; Mrs. Willis Harrison and Mrs. David Patterson, style show; Mrs. Frank Castleberry and Mrs. Jim Williams, Halloween carnival; Mrs. Johnny Raymond, nomination committee; Mrs. Bob Neeb, fine arts; Mrs. Duane Guy, remembrance; Mrs. Don Ray, entertainment; Mrs. B. B. Kendrick, telephone; Mrs. Bill Auvenshine, federation counselor; Mrs. Walter Cranmer, revisions; Mrs. David Hunt, community projects; Mrs. Jack Jones, budget chairman; Mrs. Clark Mires, conventions and board meetings.

Named as departmental heads were Mrs. H. T. Carr Jr. and Mrs. John O'Conner, conservation; Mrs. Donald Cates, education; Mrs. Durwood Henderson and Mrs. Fred Begert, home life; Mrs. Walter Shelley, international affairs; Mrs. Charles Brasher, public affairs Mrs. Benny Cooper and Mrs. Phil Langen, Texas heritage; Mrs. Bob Phillips and Mrs. Darrell Munsell, Mothers March of Dimes.

Name FNB Depository

The First National Bank of Canyon is city depository for the next fiscal year as a result of a casting of lots last Thursday night.

City Commissioners, in trying to decide which of two city banks would be depository, allowed the president of both FNBand West Texas State Bank to draw straws of sorts.

Mayor Paul Lindsey suggested the casting of lots as a way of choosing between what he termed "equal bids."

Other commissioners concurred.

The mayor had brought two large capsules to the meeting--one containing a piece of paper which proclaimed the winner, and the other containing a blank piece of paper.

The capsules were handed out and the depository contract was awarded to Bill Adams, president of First National. David Levens is president of West Texas State Bank.

Following the meeting, the mayor and commissioners agreed that the lottery was the only "fair" way to choose the depository.

H.R. Fulton, commissioner, declined to vote in the deposit question. He is a director in West Texas State Bank.

The increased funds for salaries would be used for new additions to the faculty as well as pay increases for present members, Dr. Cornette said.

The Senate committee bill also includes:

$91,000 for each year of the biennium for the Killgore Research Center. The current appropriation is $121,000 annually and the university had requested $125,000.

$113,000 in 1970 and $96,180 in 1971 for the Panhandle-Plains Museum. This includes salaries. The museum now receives $58,293. Also proposed for the museum for next year would be $20,000 for fireproof and lockup equipment for the Texana collection and $20,000 for restoration and refurnishing of a horse-drawn carriage collection.

$232,500 for use in 1970 for renovation of the old Education Building on the campus. The funds would be used to create modern university level classrooms.

The building, erected in 1927 as a teacher education demonstration school, now houses the teacher education and modern language departments.

The measure creating a separate board for WTSU was passed by the Texas House a week ago Wednesday by a recorded vote of 133 to 5. Having been passed in such a manner it may go into effect immediately.

Plans for the area delegation's trip to Austin were made by Hank Brown of the WTSU Ex-Students Association.

WTSU presently is governed by the senior college board of Texas. The new board can take over operation of the school as soon as appointments have been made.

Smith received a similar decoration for heroism in action while engaged in ground operations against enemy forces.

He is a sergeant major in Headquarters Company, 3rd Battalion, 39th Infantry, 9th Infantry Division. His wife, Anna, lives at 2611 Thirteenth Avenue in Canyon.

Buttrill also earned the Soldier's Medal, the Army's highest award for noncombat heroism last Nov. 3. While serving with his company as a rifleman, he was crossing a river with his unit on a reconnaissance mission when one man was swept away by the strong current.

Realizing that the man could not swim, Buttrill jumped into the stream and pulled the man to safety.

the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

In return, Dr. Cornette presented Tokadu with a water color painting by Dr. Emilio Caballero, head of the WTSU art department, and a cowboy hat.

In a brief interview, Tokadu said last week, establishing a bond with WTSU is important to the growth of Takasaki College.

"Without the cultural, educational and economic relationships between Japan and America, Japan will not make progress as it should," he said.

Takasaki College has an enrollment of about 2,300 students and has a curriculum which includes not only economics, but education and history.

Tokadu was president of the institution 2 1/2 years. He said the presidency is bestowed on a rotating basis.

Of the students at Takasaki, Tokadu said a small loosely-knit group is anti-American and pro-Communist. He said, however, about a third of the Japanese population is opposed to U. S. involvement in Vietnam. Tokadu returned to Japan Sunday.

'Motivate Students' Urges CHS Counselor

"Everyone who deals with young people do a certain amount of counseling," stated Carroll Killingsworth, counselor for Canyon High School, as he addressed a meeting of the University Study Club Friday afternoon at the school.

"I am the only one with the 'title' but all of the school staff which come in contact with students help in their overall counseling," stated Killingsworth. "Little League coaches, scout den mothers, Sunday School teachers, parents and friends all have a certain role in the counseling and growth of students."

"We hope to prepare students to become desirable citizens to take an effective role in society. Kids of today have to face more problems than ever before because of the complexities of society," said Killingsworth.

"School drop-outs are more, but not necessarily an increasing percentage than before," he said. "We have always had dropouts and students withdrawing from school with no intent to return to school are those considered dropouts. It has been my experience that sometimes these students return to school--when they have found after a couple of years looking that the good jobs are available to those with high school diplomas or above."

"Age and married students are not as much of a difference to be seen on high school campuses today," he stated.

"There are now some 50,000 occupations to pick from and about 75 percent of today's beginning students will take jobs in the future which have not even been heard of yet today," he stated.

"Today's student is more mobil than those of the past," he commented explaining that in a two year study at Canyon High School 50 percent of the sophomores interviewed on the study have attended four or more schools in different towns.

Each move causes problems--adjusting to a new school, new students, new teachers and he explained this is where the counselor fits in to help the student develop and discover his potentials and help develop the good qualities of each student.

"Kids need to be challenged," he said. "They need to have work laid out and know that you have confidence in their ability to accomplish."

The counselor for schools program was expanded in 1958 through a federal program giving aid in the counseling field, according to Killingsworth. He also related that there is presently a demand for counselors and they are beginning now to incorporate counseling into the elementary education level as well as secondary.

In addition to working directly with students, Killingsworth said that the counselor conducts "standardized testing programs of the school and helps get the student ready for planning his future either in college or vocational fields."

"The counselor does not enter into disciplinary problems," he said, explaining that sometimes the counselor is called on for consultation on a student's attitude during a disciplinary action.

"Students need to be taught to understand and look at themselves realistically," stated Killingsworth. "Not all students are equipped for college, some are better equipped and more satisfied to go into vocational and occupational fields and the school's testing program often points this out."

Canyon has a high percentage of students who begin college, between 85-92 percent, according to Killingsworth. "Students here seem to grow up expecting to go on to college."

"We don't discourage any student from going to college, but often point out the possibilities open now in the vocational training fields," he related.

"The average IQ for a dropout runs about 100 to 105, they aren't all the humdrum know nothings that are considered to be dropouts," emphasized Killingsworth.

"They need to be motivated and challenged to meet the needs of today's society as responsible citizens," he concluded.

He explained in depth the testing program of the Canyon Public Schools and the counselor's responsibility areas which lead not only to helping direct the student but "simply listening to them".

Killingsworth's program was concluded with a question-answer session and Mrs. Bill Davis, club president, was in charge of a regular business meeting afterwards.

The club will next month take a tour of the Children's Psychiatric Center in Amarillo. The meeting, April 11, will begin with a business session at 9:45 a.m. at the Girl Scout Building after which the group will depart for the tour in Amarillo.

Mrs. James Murphy White reported to the club on a "book fair" to benefit the Canyon City Library and asked that all members provide books for the sale.

The club voted to give $50 to the Little League athletic program in Canyon.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mesdames Bob Brotherton, Lee Roy Moreland and Eugene Bonds.

Present were Mesdames Wm. B. Davis, Truett Hull, T. S. Stevenson, Jr., Wayne Wirt, Murphy White, Richmond Hales, Bob Lindsey, Sam Jolly, Gene Morrison, Nolon Henson, Mac Bush, Troy Martin, J. C. Bellah, H. R. Fulton, Bill Cooper, Duane Howard, Bob Brotherton and Lee Roy Moreland.

Tanglewood News

BY GAY HENDRIX

The Youth of Lake Tanglewood are organizing! Kent Kellum, Scott Tinkham, Jim Boston, and Tom and Jim Mentzer have been working like beavers on the proposed teen room at the clubhouse.

The tile floor, gritty with mud, has been scrubbed and some areas carpeted. The bar from the dining room has been moved in, and the boys have been hunting through family and friends' storage for game equipment and electronic wiring paraphernalia.

Their goal is a place for the members' teenagers to get together for soft drinks, ping pong and similar games, and dancing - with all the psychedelic trimmings guaranteed to "blow your mind". The boys seem to have plenty of sense about getting things rolling.

Scott says "any organization that isn't organized flops. We want this to be a success, and we are going to do everything in our power to make it a success". So Saturday, March 29, at 2:00 p.m. all Lake Tanglewood teenagers are invited to the first meeting of the teen club to elect officers and put their heads together to figure out possible ways and means of raising some money. Black lights are a "must" and some additional equipment is needed for a sound system.

On Easter Sunday the club will start serving a regular Sunday buffet from 12:00 noon unti 3:00 p.m. Club hours will also be extended to 10:00 p.m. every evening except Monday for swimming and dining. A dinner menu will be offered which will make good use of Dick Tinkhams new charbroiler. The club is fast becoming the center of plenty of action and many congenial get-togethers.

Charlie Walker "went to town" with his post hole digger this week and got that shipment of 200 California Populars into the ground. Charlie is also keeping fairly well occupied building seven new homes which have sprouted seemingly overnight around the lake.

As though those don't keep him busy enough, Charlie keeps busy with one of his hobbies, cooking. Most any morning you can catch a performance in the clubhouse kitchen-handy flipping of pancakes, fried pies, and other culinary delights, flavored with dashes of C. W. humor and wit.

Next Wednesday David Casey takes off for Austin and a chat with the Texas Water Rights Commission about repairs and improvements on the dam and spillways. He feels certain that some work will have to be done this summer, and the Commission will be able to spell it out in detail for him.

He is anticipating extensive work on the spillways and on the back side of the dam to prevent erosion in the event of heavy rains.

Warm weather has brought a lot of us out of hibernation and on to the lake. Too bad we weren't all as clever as the Jim Johnsons in rigging our boats for year round "luxury" cruising.

Jim, a weekend inventor, has rigged an old gas heater to operate splendidly when attached to a large bottle of butane. One cold Sunday two weeks ago, while most of us stayed indoors, Marvin Gene and Jim Johnson, the Dodsons, Oakleys, Bostons and Gabe Andersons cruised comfortably around the lake for six hours "as warm as toast".

The party finally "docked" at the clubhouse for dinner.

Library Group To Houston

Texas Library Association will hold a 56th annual convention in Houston through March 29 with the theme "Preparation, Professionalism and Productivity".

School, university and public librarians will be participating lincluding Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Dyess and Lee Oliver, all of the West Texas State University Library.

Among nationally known speakers will be Max Lerner, author, professor and lecturer, whose topic will be "Five Revolutions in American Life"; Dr. Paul Wasserman, dean of the library school for University of Maryland, who will discuss "Education, Professionalism and Performance"; and Dr. Eric Moon on "A Conspiracy Against The Laity".

Francis Shell, a pharmacist and drugstore owner, and Walter Shelly, an assistant professor of government at WTSU, on the ballot.

Shelly is trying for the place now held by Pierce and Shell will try to unseat Olsen.

Among the issues at stake in the city election are those which involve parking medians and turn signals on 23rd Street; economy in city government; a possible combination of the city and school tax offices; and the joining of Canyon with Amarillo in a regional planning organization.

City Commissioners have already approved a 1969 budget which includes $19,000 for the installation of turn signals on 23rd Street.

Further plans call for the installation of medians along the street and the abolition of parking along the highway.

When the issue came before the commission in the fall, all councilmen, except Pierce, voted for the traffic plan.

Shelly has gone on record as saying he will support traffic measures which further public safety.

Shell has said he does not think he could conscientiously take away a merchant's parking spaces.

To present the candidate's views on the other issues facing Canyon, The Canyon Sunday News in its next issue will present individual interviews with each of the candidates.

Olsen was named to the commission to fill out the unexpired term of the late Tom Foster. Shell has been a Canyon resident 11 years and owns The Shell's Pharmacy. Pierce is a long-time Canyon resident.

The election will be in the city hall annex. Polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Lightning Is Blamed

Lightning during a light thunderstorm Saturday night started a fire at 1121 Hillcrest, Canyon, for which the Canyon Volunteer Fire Department was called, according to Captain Joe Rice.

Owned by Mrs. Georgia Lee, the house sustained moderate damage to the attic.

pects renumeration when he makes an overnight stay in a distant area.

He said several members of his committee have areas of the state in which they try to recruit year after year.

He said he recruits in schools which have requested a recruiter.

Last year, Carruth said, he made two trips which used chamber funds--one to the Midland-Odessa area, and the other to five or six schools in Eastern New Mexico.

Adams asked the dean how much he charged for an overnight recruiting visit.

"I charge 10 cents per mile and $14 per day for subsistence," Carruth said.

"Why can't you get state expenses for this?" Adams asked.

"It's against the state law," Carruth said.

"What about other departments?" Adams asked.

"Most of them travel out of their own pockets," Carruth said.

Later, Carruth said his recruiting trips last year amounted to $186.

"If the chamber wants to help in this recruitment, fine he said. "If you feel this is legitimate, it's the only way it can be done."

Adams said although he feels the recruitment trips are important, he feels "other things are equally as inportant."

"If you got by for $186 last year, why do you need $500 this year?" Adams asked.

Carruth during the course of his discussion had handed out a request for an appropriation of $500 from the chamber and a list of how the money would be spent.

Adams questioned Carruth on each item.

"I recommend, as an outsider, that in view of the short budget this year, we appropriate $250 this year for the education committee." Adams said. "It is incumbent on the chamber to scrutinize each of these budgets and see if you can't cut some of the excess at this time. I recommend that you (turning to Carruth) try to get by on it(the $250) this year."

Carruth countered by saying that the budget request took into account two additional trips this year--one to Corpus Christi and one to Houston.

Adams and Carruth left the meeting after House assured each that the budget request would be looked over.

When the two had left, Troy Martin, editor and publisher of The Canyon News, and Bernard Warren, owner of a downtown business, stressed the importance of the recruitment program and its success.

"We have tried and tried to get new industry in Canyon," Warren said, "but by the same token we're not supporting the only industry we have. If it wasn't for the university, Canyon would be a one-horse town."

In other action, the board voted not to accept 3,000 brochures advertising the musical drama "TEXAS," as annual dues from the Panhandle-Plains Heritage Foundation.

Yearly dues are $60.

cher said a new look should be taken at utilities in the county.

Butler withdrew his motion and the matter was tabled until the first meeting in April as no meeting of the court will be held next week.

A new formula submitted by Mrs. Bruse for taxing motor vehicles in the county was accepted by the court. The formula was worked out by Lloyd Welch, deputy assessor-collector.

Welch said he used the Red Book, a standard price list for used car dealers. The formula increases taxing base on some models and decreases it on others.

Mrs. Bruse told the court that there have been past discrepancies in computing depreciation on some homes in the county.

In other business, the court agreed to make payment of $7,500 to Children's Psychiatric Center.

The court accepted a fire contract with the city of Canyon. Under the contract city firemen will fight rural fires for $100 a fire.
